ALEXANDRIA.

At the Alexandria has left of the more than half million of dollars expended on account of the Alexandria canal is now the locks and the land occupied by the canal extending on the north side of Montgomery street from Pitt street to the Potomac river. This was formerly saved from a lucky point, the city of Alexandria. There is in the locks a large quantity of fine red sandstone, and in the locks a considerable quantity of green sandstone. The sandstone is of the already been used in the abutments of Hoot's run bridge, and there is a proposal to break up the stone in the locks and use it in the abutments of the bridge. This city. What will be done with the fine cut stone of the locks has not yet been determined. The city of Alexandria, however, some small profit from leases of the river front of the canal, and the committee on public property is now considering a proposal to lease the manufacturing enterprise which proposes to establish works there.

For three days the shipping in Alexandria harbor has worn its flags at half-mast as a mark of respect to the death of Capt. Wm. Nowell of the steamer Harry Randall. Today the funeral of Capt. Nowell came off at 10 o'clock. The funeral was held at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Nowell, and the remains were accompanied by many friends in a long line of carriages. TAKOMA PARK.

A merry party of young people, chartered by the quarter of Takoma Park, enjoyed a straw ride on Friday night, the objective point being the Soldiers' Home, where, in response to an invitation from the Temperance Society, of which Miss Levy is president, the Takoma Park Dramatic and Literary Club rendered a program which reflected credit upon those participants, as well as gratifying their large audience, who were present in numbers by continued and prolonged applause.

The decoration of the chancel in Trinity Episcopal Church during the past week has greatly enriched this portion of the church, and the church has been compared by the pastor, Rev. Allen Griffith, when the church was last full, but without the present time. Still further improvements are being planned for the near future.

ANACOSTIA.

Mr. J. D. Newton, who resides on Jackson street east of Taylor, has, by letter, called the attention of the Commissioners to the neglected condition of that portion of that thoroughfare, in which he complained that the case of a sheet, or continued to be wet with water, and that it was impossible to pedestrians by reason of the failure on the part of the authorities to provide a suitable footway to span the branch which crosses the street, having no drainage, and that the water was a nuisance to the neighborhood. Mr. Newton has asked that the square be graded and paved, to which request the early attention of the Commissioners is being given.

On last Friday night the residence of Mr. James Green on the Asylum Farm, was bright with the presence of a large party of young people from the city and vicinity, who had come to remember the birthday of Mrs. Green. Games, dancing and refreshments were enjoyed to the accompaniment of music. Some of those present were Misses Nellie Leonard, Jessie Darling, Lizzie Wood, Theodore North, Annie Dodge, Emma Dodge, Kate Dodge, and others.

The Methodist League will hold their weekly meeting on Friday evening at the residence of Dr. H. B. Bennett on Magnolia avenue. ROCKVILLE.

Saturday night another one of those disgraceful occurrences so frequent on the midnight train from Washington took place between Kensington and Garrett Park. Among the passengers on the train was a colored man named William Bell, a resident of Garrett Park, who was the employer of Mr. J. T. Kelley. He had bought a ticket in Washington for Kensington, and falling to get off at that station he was approached by Conductor Martin, who demanded that he pay for the ticket. Mr. Bell refused to pay, and was struck with a blackjack, and upon the arrival of the train at Garrett Park, he was thrown out of the train.

lifeless body of a colored boy was found suspended to the limb of a tree in a body of pines about half a mile from Boyd's Station. When found, the general appearance of the body indicated that it had been there for several days. All the indications pointed to suicide, as the boy had carefully plied his overcoat and hat under the tree before committing the rash act. A large handkerchief was used for the purpose, one end of it being tied to the limb of the tree and the other end around his neck. He found his feet were nearly touching the ground. At 4 o'clock Justice Thomas at the station was notified of the finding of the body and immediately organized a committee to make an investigation of the case. The young suicide appeared to be about eighteen years of age, of a light complexion and was dressed in good clothing. The body was later identified as that of Thaddeus Jones of Washington, formerly a student teacher in the neighborhood of Boyd's.
